Lyrics	1 O praise the Lord, ye nations all, Whose eye beholds the sparrows fall, At morn and night His deeds recall, Who reigneth ever more. Refrain: O praise the Lord, our mighty King; Let mortal tongues their tribute bring, While heav'n and earth His glory sing, Who reigneth ever more. 2 He crowns each day with blessings new, His gifts descend like early dew, His ways are just His statutes true, Who reigneth ever more. [Refrain] 3 We would His goodness gladly own, And bow with rev'rence at His throne, To worship Him, or God alone, Who reigneth ever more. [Refrain]
